RE: Packaging Adhesive

Retail Partners,

Recently, you may have noticed an amber substance on FirstMate and KASIKS packaging. It is a water-based palletizing adhesive that is intentionally applied to the outside of our packaging before stacking them onto pallets. The adhesive helps to bond the load and prevent damage resulting from packaging shifts and sliding during transport.

The adhesive and its ingredients will not impact our products' quality, and our food is safe and healthy.

Our production team is reviewing long-term adjustments.

We appreciate your assistance in ensuring consumer confidence.

Sincerely,

Matt Wilson
